

America Recycles Week 2019

“Charting a Collaborative Path Forward to a More Resilient Recycling System”

Overview of Events for America Recycles Full-Workgroup Call

November 1, 2019 – Draft - Content is Subject to Change

Background

Last year on November 15, 2018, EPA hosted the America Recycles Day Summit that brought together stakeholders from across the recycling system to join EPA in signing the America Recycles Pledge. That day, 45 signatories, including EPA, pledged to work together to identify specific actions to take in addressing challenges and opportunities facing the U.S. recycling system. Since hosting the Summit, EPA has coordinated the efforts of four workgroups charged with addressing challenges in the recycling system across the four action areas identified last year: Promote Education and Outreach, Enhance Materials Management Infrastructure, Strengthen Secondary Material Markets, and Enhance Measurement. Today, a total of over 165 organizations have signed the pledge.

America Recycles Week

EPA and the America Recycles Network participants are planning an entire week of activities this November 11th-15th. Each day will feature a different communications theme, and numerous events across the country are being planned by EPA, EPA’s Regional offices, and America Recycles Network members. The daily communications themes and highlights of key events are summarized in the table below. America Recycles Network participants are also encouraged to register additional events celebrating America Recycles Day on the Keep America Beautiful website, <https://americarecyclesday.org/add-event/>.

The Fair will take place on November 14th from 1:00pm – 6:00pm in the Ronald Reagan Building Pavillion Room and is open to the press and the public.

During the Innovation Fair (time TBD), the National Waste and Recycling Association will be conducting a brief ceremony recognizing veterans for their service and commitment to environmental protection by presenting several with Challenge Coins. During the last two hours of the Innovation Fair, from 4:00pm – 6:00pm in the Ronald Reagan Building Pavilion Foyer, Keep America Beautiful, ISRI, The Recycling Partnership, and several other organizations that sponsor America Recycles Day will be sponsoring an America Recycles Reception.

2019 America Recycles Summit – Nov. 15, 10:00am-1:00pm

On Friday, November 15, 2019, from 10:00 am – 1:00 pm in Room 1153 in the William Jefferson Clinton Building – East, Administrator Wheeler will host America Recycles Pledge signatories in EPA’s 2019 Recycling Summit. The Summit is open to the press but not open to the public; invitees are limited to America Recycles Pledge signatories as well as any special guests invited by EPA leadership. During the Summit, workgroup leaders will present on their accomplishments and deliverables, and participants will have an opportunity to identify additional commitments or actions they will take to improve domestic recycling.

During the Summit, EPA will announce the release of its National Framework for Advancing the U.S. Recycling System. The Framework will build on the status report released in July 2019 and will highlight the work completed by the America Recycles partnering organizations as well as partnership activities completed by America Recycles Pledge signatories. The Framework is intended to highlight collaborative efforts made by EPA and others to improve the resilience of the U.S. recycling system as well as identify areas for future action.
